

THE Sequatchie Valley Institute
INVITES YOU TO THE Springtime
Wildflower Hikes

March 31st and April 14th

The rich ecosystem in the coves and hollows of Sequatchie Valley is waking up with enthusiasm. Join us among the emerging ragwort, buckeye, bloodroot, trout lily, trilliums, redbuds, and dogwoods as we walk with naturalists, ethnobotanists, and foresters familiar with the SE Tennessee bioregion.

We are located 45 minutes from downtown Chattanooga, between Dunlap and Whitwell.

All ages are welcome! As we are a wildlife refuge area, pets stay home.

11:00am (CST)

Tour Permaculture landscape, hand-crafted solar living structures, and the Pipsissewa Arboretum Trail.
Herbal tea, coffee, and spring water provided.

There are many serene areas perfect for picnics.

12:30pm

Shuttle or hike up uphill 0.7 miles from the registration desk to the starting point.

1:00pm

Meander below the bluffs and discover awakening native flora.
At about 3pm, continue on a more rugged hike along Hick's Creek and up the canyon.

WHAT TO BRING

Sturdy boots/shoes

Long pants

Water bottle

Light lunch or snacks

Camera, ID Books, & Journals

While you're here

Visit the Liquidambar Art Gallery

Pottery, paintings, glass work, and sculptures created by local artists are available for viewing and purchase.

Complimentary wine and cheese provided.

Contact us!

Landline: (423) 949-4598

Cell: (770) 241-3958

Address:

1233 Cartwright Loop
Whitwell, TN 37397

WWW.SVIONLINE.ORG

 We're on Facebook!

Sequatchie Valley Institute

is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization with a mission to enable society to learn about and experience living in harmony with nature. We facilitate land conservation and restoration through practice, research, education, and art.

The suggested donation for the Springtime Wildflower Hike is $8-$20